De mensen die de credit verdienen krijgen ze niet, hier dus Jim Humble, de uitvinder van MMS. Hij wordt op zoveel mogelijke fronten tegen gewerkt.

He is the person who deserves the credits of inventing mms, not "the others"!

U.S. Government and Johnson & Johnson use MMS!

This is not a joke. You can see from the following article that the U.S. Government has done research for many years on the safety of using chlorine dioxide in many daily applications. Now, they have patented it and are working with it around the world! This is the same government that tried and convicted Daniel Smith recently. There is one justice for the U.S. Government and the companies that support them and another for the common "John Smith" citizen and in this case "Daniel Smith" citizen.

Although they are not promoting ingesting chlorine dioxide they are mentioning its application as a mouthwash and cleaning vegetables and fruits as well as treating water which all enter the mouth. They even say, "Chlorine dioxide is a yellow-green gas with a faint odor similar to chlorine bleach, but otherwise it is very different. It has been recognized as a disinfectant since the early 1900s, and has been approved by the U.S. EPA for many applications." Like bleach but not

It has effectively been used to kill bacterial spores, which are much more difficult to kill than viruses, such as Ebola, according to Doona." We know this and have used it for Ebola in West Africa.*

"Americans hear in the news about outbreaks of E. coli, Listeria, and Salmonella from fresh fruits and vegetables. ClO2 holds promise for the food industry but also, on a smaller scale as a home sanitizer for rinsing fresh produce or appliances," Doona said.

Natick plays key role in helping to fight spread of Ebola

Story Highlights

- Army science and technology helps to fight Ebola in West Africa

Researchers Dr. Christopher Doona (right) and Florence Feeherry of the U.S. Army Natick Soldier Research, Development, and Engineering Center developed next-generation decontamination technologies that safely, conveniently, and controllably generate chlorine dioxide without acids or power. ClO<sub>2</sub> kills bacterial spores, viruses, and vegetative cells, while minimizing hazards to the user and the environment.

NATICK, Mass. (Oct. 21, 2014) -- Researchers at the U.S. Army Natick Soldier Research, Development and Engineering Center here, invented a next-generation disinfectant system that kills the Ebola virus on surfaces.

The scientists developed and patented a novel chemical system, which is being used to sterilize medical equipment and electronic items used in the treatment of patients on the front lines of the war on Ebola in West Africa.

This came about through the transfer of the technology from the Army lab to a privately held company, ClorDiSys Solutions, which is manufacturing the portable "no power required" chemical compound, and supplying it worldwide.

One of the key research thrusts at the U.S. Army Natick Soldier Research, Development and Engineering Center is the discovery and development of decontamination technologies to keep the warfighter healthy and safe from bioterror attack. Natick's invention is a portable "no power required" method of generating chlorine dioxide, known as ClO<sub>2</sub>, gas, one of the best biocides available for combating contaminants, which range from benign microbes and food pathogens to Category A Bioterror agents.

The starting ingredients used to generate ClO<sub>2</sub> are now produced and marketed by Lebanon, New Jersey-based ClorDiSys Solutions, and they can be quickly mobilized and applied as a gas to decontaminate or sterilize equipment and surfaces.

Dr. Christopher Doona, the lead inventor of this field-portable method for generating ClO<sub>2</sub>, is a senior research chemist at the center, known locally as Natick Labs, with extensive experience in ClO<sub>2</sub> reaction chemistry. Doona and his team are credited with inventing and perfecting this process of converting dry powder chemicals into ClO<sub>2</sub>.

Doona says an important exponent of ClO<sub>2</sub> is its versatility as a disinfectant suitable for any industry, ranging from textiles, medicine, wastewater treatment and public health, to food safety, personal hygiene, and household uses. ClO<sub>2</sub> can be activated in small or large quantities and in varying strength levels from potent enough to sterilize medical instruments to mild enough to use in toothpaste to fight off germs in the mouth.

This technology could have ended up like many military technologies, in a warfighter-only product. However, the Army patented it and the technology transfer specialists at TechLink in Bozeman, Montana, collaborated with Natick's Technology Transfer Office, to transfer the technology to ClorDiSys, so it could be commercialized and made widely available. Technology transfer such as this, from a government lab to private enterprise, is mandated by Congress and ensures that useful technologies don't just gather dust on a shelf, but find application in U.S. industry.

Jeff DiTullio, business development lead at Natick, is always searching for opportunities where military innovation can be licensed for commercial application. Natick is one of dozens of DOD laboratories actively involved in research and technology aimed at benefiting the U.S. warfighter, and giving the military unrivaled operational capability. Working as a conduit between the DOD and the private sector, TechLink assisted ClorDiSys in navigating the Army's licensing process.

"It was a perfect scenario. We needed something and the Army had it. TechLink helped us get to the finish line," said Paul Lorcheim, ClorDiSys Solutions' director of operations.

"This transfer would not have happened without TechLink," added DiTullio.

ClorDiSys Solutions is a spinout of Johnson & Johnson. The company focuses on generating and using ClO<sub>2</sub>, providing both powered and unpowered solutions for a variety of applications, and in particular for decontamination and sterilization of pharmaceutical, medical, veterinary, and food facilities. When the opportunity came along to provide ClO<sub>2</sub> on the Ebola front, ClorDiSys was willing and ready.

"ClorDiSys is proud to be helping to fight the spread of Ebola in Africa," said Mark Czarneski, ClorDiSys Solutions' director of technology. "Various world health organizations, including the U.S. government, are using ClorDiSys's gaseous chlorine dioxide to sterilize medical equipment contaminated with Ebola. It has been tested and is being utilized by these organizations for a number of applications."

The company's ultraviolet light disinfection system, called TORCH, was also utilized by the University of Nebraska Medical Center to perform the terminal disinfection after the release of their first Ebola patient.

Chlorine dioxide is a yellow-green gas with a faint odor similar to chlorine bleach, but otherwise it is very different. It has been recognized as a disinfectant since the early 1900s, and has been approved by the U.S. EPA for many applications.

In the modern age, the effectiveness of ClO<sub>2</sub> was confirmed at the dawn of the new millennium. In the weeks after the 9/11 attacks when terrorists sent anthrax in letters to public officials, hazardous materials teams used ClO<sub>2</sub> to decontaminate the Hart Senate Office Building, and the Brentwood Postal Facility.

Unlike other methods of preparing chlorine dioxide, no electricity or caustic acids are needed to activate the powdered ClO<sub>2</sub>, nor is clean water required, making it ideal for use in remote field locations. Packets of ClorDiSys's ClO<sub>2</sub> product, which until recently did not exist, are portable enough to be carried in backpacks.

Chlorine dioxide is a broad-based biocide that kills spores, bacteria, viruses, and fungi. To date no organism tested against ClO<sub>2</sub> has proved resistant. It has effectively been used to kill bacterial spores, which are much more difficult to kill than viruses, such as Ebola, according to Doona.

"Americans hear in the news about outbreaks of E. coli, Listeria, and Salmonella from fresh fruits and vegetables. ClO<sub>2</sub> holds promise for the food industry but also, on a smaller scale as a home sanitizer for rinsing fresh produce or appliances," Doona said.

The success of ClO<sub>2</sub> in combating Ebola and other pathogens follows collaboration between the DoD and a biotech company that yielded a potential treatment for victims sickened by Ebola. The Ebola antibody that is a key component of the experimental drug called ZMapp was developed in the Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases, and transferred with assistance from TechLink to Mapp Biopharmaceutical of San Diego. ZMapp is credited with having saved the lives of two American medical missionaries who contracted Ebola last July, and is regarded as one of the most promising treatments for Ebola currently under development.

As you can see, Acidified MMS is and has been used worldwide safely yet “they” (the media outlets and the FDA owned by the same people that use chlorine dioxide), say it is a dangerous BLEACH! This is not true and “they” know it and use it. “They” want this information about the safety of Acidified MMS suppressed because of the benefits to mankind and the diseases it can eliminate such as, Malaria, the number #1 killer in the world that makes “them” so much money and allows “them” to enslave countries with “their” pharmaceuticals.

Open your eyes and see how “they”, the elite, have created and supplanted in the minds of the world the idea that the allopathic method and pharmaceuticals are the only way to obtain health. This is indoctrinated into all of us from the media and the school systems throughout the world.
